I did the first installation. I also forked the tendermint repository to my GitHub repository <https://github.com/FurkanKarakas/tendermint>. We can run a single node tendermint at the moment but to run local testnets, we can utilize docker. To start a 4 node testnet, run:

make localnet-start

After executing multiple nodes, a new folder build is created. In this folder, each node has a log file, which is called tendermint.log. These log files contain the commit and execute steps of the program, written with their corresponding timestamps.
